FOREWORD

Time constraints did not permit an exhaustive review of Agency printing requirements in respect to the usefulness of the material printed and the validity of publication distribution lists. Statements by the various Directorates of their printing requirements were the primary basis for the estimates of printing requirements as presented in this study. One note of warning: the study expresses concern that printing requirements will soon outstrip printing capability. Nevertheless, the Study Group, while agreeing that printing capability in the short-run may well ^{Constitute} ~~impact~~ on printing requirements, feels that in the long-run, ~~valid~~ printing requirements must be paramount not printing capability.
